"Yes" or "No" for Camden Football Train by Tuesday Afternoon

TEST FOR BOBCATS Must Defeat Camden to Keep Position in "Big 15" Race

The Hope High School Athletic Committee announced Monday that a special train has been chartered to carry the football squad, the 63-piece Hope Boys band and followers of the team to Camden Friday night where the Bobcats will engage the Panthers in what promises to be a bitterly-fought battle.

The committee wants to know how many train coaches will be necessary to ride the special are urged to telephone the high school, No. 167, immediately.

Must Know Now As all railroads are short of equipment, due to increased transportation, the committee must know not later than Tuesday afternoon how many coaches to order.

Round trip fare is $1.32. Half fare is 65 cents (half fare being for children from 5 to 12 years old).

The special train will leave the Missouri Pacific depot at 4:30 p. m. and will arrive in Camden at 6:30 o'clock. The train will leave Camden about 10:45 for the return trip, arriving in Hope at 12:45 a. m. Saturday.

If you expect to ride the special, telephone your reservations now. The committee must know whether 200 or 300 persons are going.

The train will be piloted by faculty members and Missouri Pacific special agents.

Team Is Ready Coach Fay Hammons said Monday that his team came out of the Nashville game Friday night in "pretty good shape" and that he expected every member of the squad to be in top condition by Friday.

Fullback Joe Eason, who failed to see action against the Nashville team because of an ankle injury, will report for practice Monday. Swelling in the ankle has subsided and he is expected to be in his regular position against the Panthers.

Freeman Stone has a leg injury, but is expected to be in shape.

Coach Hammons said he would take no chances on injury for any of his players, cancelling his scrimmage work. Much time will be devoted to offensive drill.

The Bobcats will be risking their conference position against Camden, the locals having won two games in the "Big 15" against no defenses. Camden has been defeated by Little Rock and Pine Bluff. The Panthers will be after their first conference win of the season.

The officials will be Billy Dunaway, Clark Jordan and Ed Cole. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

Trench Silo Is to Be Demonstrated

Demonstration 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at Lee Garland Farm

A trench silo demonstration will be held at Lee Garland's farm Wednesday, October 27, at 1:30 p. m. The farm is located four miles from Hope on the Hope-Blevins highway. This is the same demonstration that was announced some time ago but due to weather conditions it had to be postponed.

There are numerous advantages of preserving feed in a silo, the most important being:

1. Feed preserved as silage carries a feeding value from two to three times greater than the same feed when cut and placed in the barn.

2. Silage is a palatable feed, readily eaten by livestock.

3. Grain sorghums can be grown for silage during drought periods that will not make corn.

4. Trench silos are easily constructed with any cash crop.

Soul Clinics Draw Thousands Seeking Right Niche in Life

Problems Range From Trivial Worries to Important Marriage

HAPPINESS IS GOAL Willis Thornton Concludes 5-Article Series on Eternal Search

This is the last of five stories on the diverse roads down which millions are drawn in today's frantic pursuit of happiness.

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

More than a half-million people have been treated at a single "Body and Soul Clinic" in New York City.

That gives you an idea of how people who are unhappy and defeated by life are turning to the psychiatrist and the psychologist for guidance toward happiness today. And the New York clinic is only one of dozens scattered about the country, straightening out problems of love, vocational guidance and the like.

Dr. Edward Spencer Cowles, who runs the Body and Soul Clinic in the Stuyvesant Casino, on New York's East Side, explains thus the need that called it forth:

"There are literally millions of fear-sufferers on the borderland of insanity—people who are afraid to cross streets, look out high windows, afraid of crowds, afraid to enter subways, afraid of autos, afraid of nearly everything."

In short, acutely unhappy ones who, unless treatment is provided, turn into actual mental cases and become a burden to the state. Dr. Cowles, whose work is estimated to have saved the state of New York $5,000,000 a year in care of mental cases, believes there should be a psychiatrist assigned to every public school. But he adds bitterly:

You can even get money for shrubbery, but for these pitiful cases in our living midst, nothing.

Ran Into Opposition Dr. Cowles has reason for some little bitterness, for his experiences in establishing and maintaining his clinic have been hectic enough. It was in 1923 that he opened, in the church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery on New York's East Side, a clinic in which he gave his patients first a thorough physical examination and treatment.

Then a mental history was taken, sufficient to lay bare any conflicts that had been causing unhappiness. A little assurance here, a little advice there, a little straightening up of a mental kink, and 80 per cent of the patients were able to overcome their difficulties.

But opposition arose, and after a bitter controversy the clinic was kicked out of the church in 1932, whereupon it was immediately established on an independent basis. It still operates so, with more than 3000 patients often on its rolls at one time, and more than 500,000 who have received its benefits.

Service goes to Millions Last this gives you the somewhat widely-held idea that we're all going crazy, listen to Dr. C. M. Hinkley, general director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

He predicts a decrease in mental disease, and says statistics are misleading because treatment is now available for so many more people that cases are now known which would formerly have existed but been concealed.

Nevertheless, the number of unhappy, maladjusted, potentially-unbalanced people turning daily to psychologists and psychiatrists is impressive.

It may turn out that the "Soul Clinic," so-called, is the most important medical development of the century. In varying forms, it is gradually extending its services to millions.

DuZens of Clinics Boston has a Worries Clinic, which is just about what you would expect from the name. San Francisco has its Family Relations Center, where Henry M. Grant offers guidance to husbands and wives in their marriage problems.

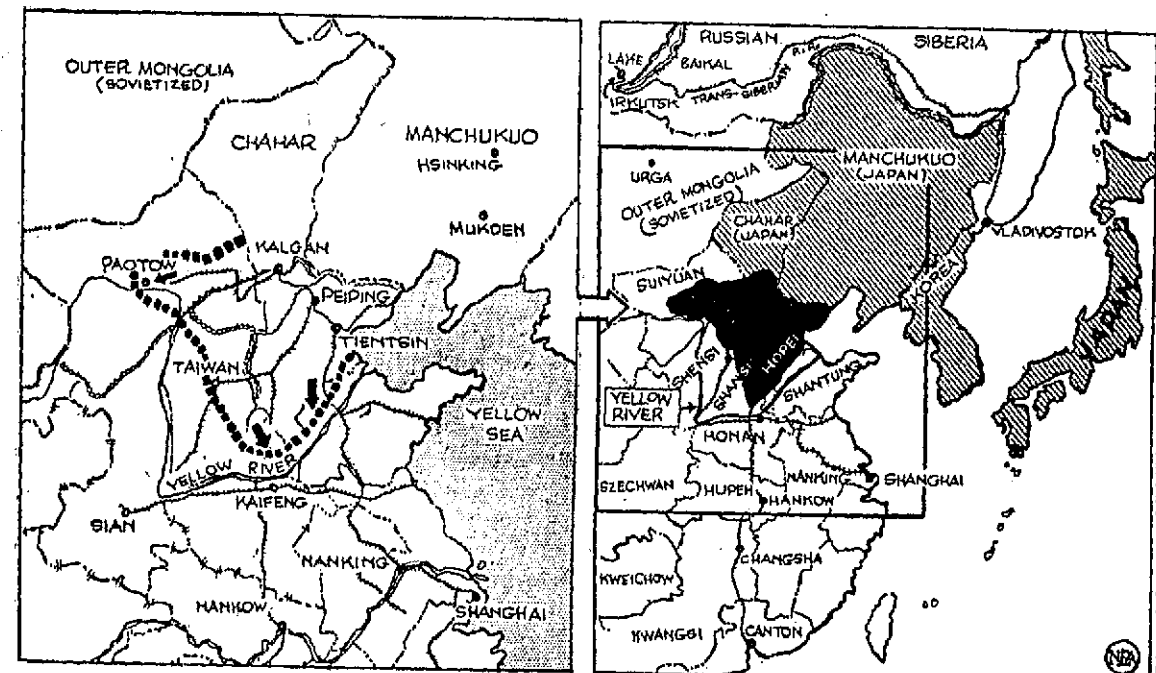

New York has its Psychological Service Center, directed by Dr. Henry Link, who wrote "The Return to Religion."

Hoboken also has at the Stevens Institute of Technology a famous center for vocational guidance headed by Johnson O'Connor. Here 200,000 people have been analyzed for their aptitude toward various kinds of work, in the hope of fitting them more suitably into life.

There are a dozen more such clinics.

How Japs' North China Wedge Flanks Siberia

Three spearheads sought to advance the Japanese steam roller into North China. One seized the railroad terminus at Paochow, thus gaining virtual control of most of Suiyuan province. Another pressing along the Peking-Hankow railroad, occupied Hopei province and entered the northern tip of Honan. A third operating along the Tientsin-Nanking railroad advanced almost to the Yellow river, controlling part of northern Shantung. New resistance is being met on the Hopei-Shansi border from a Chinese Red army.

Fitted into the general map of eastern Asia, the Japanese advance reveals its strategic value. Note how its westerly thrust "flanks" Russian territory to the north. Outer Mongolia, whose capital is Urga, is Sovietized, and Stalin has announced he would defend its territory. Directly north lies Lake Balkal, "bottleneck" of the Trans-Siberian railway, Russia's lone line of communication with east Siberia. Thus already the Japanese advance has "flanked" Russian Siberia by a wedge 1300 miles inland to the west of Vladivostok.

Japan for First Time Admits Her Army Is Stopped

100,000 Men, Tanks, and Planes, "Slowed Down" at Shanghai

STILL DEADLOCKED Oriental War Now Focused on Tazang, North of Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's embattled Chinese armies stopped the Japanese juggernaut's offensive Monday after six days and night of heavy fighting on the Shanghai front.

A Japanese army spokesman admitted that the general Japanese advance of "more than 100,000 men" aided by tanks, planes and continued bombardment was "slowed down."

Bitter fighting amid the ruins of Tazang, strategic communications point five miles north of Shanghai, still is in progress.

Cotton Picker to Replace Hands; But It Will Be Slow

Present Machine Cost Is $1.65, Against $1 for Human Hands

IS TO BE REDUCED Machine Will Cut Cost to 65 Cents, in Next 5 or 10 Years

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Agricultural economist of the Works Progress Administration said today the widespread and growing interest in the mechanical cotton picker might lead to displacement of half a million field hands within five or 10 years.

In a report to Administrator Harry Hopkins, they said a widespread use of the picking machine might bring other important changes in production of cotton—reduced number of tenants and sharecroppers, greater use of machinery in other phases of mechanized tillage and harvest, and an increase in the yield of cotton.

"Although the plight of the unfortunate people displaced should not be minimized," the report said, "neither should concern for their future obscure the fact that picking cotton by hand is slow and tedious work."

"In the long run, society will gain by any reduction in the man-hours required to produce a given quantity of cotton."

The economists said, however, the present mechanical picker fails to get all the cotton in the field, loses part of the seed, and leaves trash and discoloration in the lint.

Machine Picking Higher Now They estimated the cost of machine harvesting at $1.65 per 100 pounds, compared to $1 per 100 for hand picking. They said, therefore, that the mechanical picker in its present stage of development is not likely to take the cotton belt by storm.

An improved two-row, twice-over machine having a longer life and requiring only one operator, the report said, might lower the cost of mechanical picking to about 65 cents per 100—assuming cotton left in the field could be reduced to three per cent and the loss from lowered quality to eight per cent.

"Successful one and two row machines, if developed," it said, "might in the course of perhaps 10 years be applied to an upper limit of about half the present cotton acreage and displace a maximum of 2,000,000 hand pickers for the picking season of about 10 work-days."

"The displacement of half a million pickers within a period of five or 10 years appears more probable, however."

The spread of the machine, it said, probably will be gradual rather than sudden, because "rapid mechanization has occurred only where the fr-

Franco Prepares Final Rebel Drive

Insurgents Hope to End Civil War Before Another Winter

By the Associated Press

Generalissimo Francisco Franco, dictator of insurgent Spain, prepared Monday for a new and gigantic offensive effort to end the civil war before fighting is bogged down by winter weather.

His grasp on northwestern Spain secure, Franco concentrated his troops in battles among them—at Zaragoza, 175 miles northeast of Madrid.

His objective was to cut away government-held Spain—the section south and east from Madrid to the Mediterranean—from the allied but autonomous Catalan state in northeast Spain.

Other facets of the Spain war situation were:

The French freighter Mellah was bombed in the Mediterranean by unidentified planes, and the British liner Kaiser-I-Hind radiated that an unidentified seaplane had dropped two bombs.

Scottsboro Negro Loses U. S. Appeal

Justice Black Declines to Participate in Case of Patterson

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Haywood Patterson, one of nine negroes involved in the famous Scottsboro case, lost in the United States Supreme Court Monday in his effort to escape a 75-year prison sentence imposed by the Alabama courts for an alleged attack on a white woman.

In announcing the denial of Patterson's petition, the court said Justice Black "took no part in the consideration or the decision on this application."

That removed any possibility of a challenge of Black's position on the bench on the ground that he is a former member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Negro Stabbed to Death; 2nd Is Held

J. C. Lewis Killed at Fulton, and James Taylor Is Arrested

Deputy Sheriff Reginald Bearden Monday afternoon announced the arrest of James Taylor, 35-year-old Fulton negro, for the fatal stabbing of J. C. Lewis, another negro, who was killed early Sunday at Fulton.

The Taylor negro was arrested at Fulton and taken to the county jail at Washington to await a preliminary hearing at 10 a. m. Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Logan at Fulton.

Bearden also announced the arrest of Ed Caple, Arthur Caple and Montgomery Hill, all negroes, for the burning of the William Hixon home four miles north of DeAnn Sunday morning.

The three negroes were arrested Sunday night and are held in the Washington jail, to await a hearing before Municipal Judge W. K. Lemley at Hope next Monday.

Hixon, a negro, was unable to explain a cause for the burning of his home.

How We Help Japan to Conquer China

IF there is one American who is entitled to be heard in connection with the tangled situation in the Far East, it is former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Mr. Stimson was some six years ahead of President Roosevelt in the belief that this country should take peaceful but effective measures to restrain the Japanese militarists. Unfortunately, the British let him down with a dull thud when he tried to translate his belief into action, and his effort to preserve peace and the sanctity of treaties in the Orient failed.

But he knows the Chinese-Japanese situation as few Americans know it; and when he wrote a lengthy letter to the New York Times the other day, setting forth his ideas on the course America ought to follow, he said some things which all Americans ought to ponder.

No one, says Mr. Stimson, can argue that we should send troops and warships to the Orient to restrain the Japanese invasion by force. The American people would never consent to such a step: even if they did, China must work out her own salvation and her problem cannot be solved by outside intervention.

But that, he continues, does not mean that we must fold our hands and passively watch the Japanese complete their program of aggression. For, as a matter of fact, Mr. Stimson says, we are right now actively helping Japan—giving her the help without which she could not carry on the war.

Japan, he points out, depends on the outside world for her ability to attack China. She has ample manufacturing facilities, but she lacks the vital raw materials—oil, iron, rubber and cotton. These she must buy abroad; she can pay for them only by selling enough of her own products to obtain the requisite foreign exchange.

The principal product that she has for sale is raw silk. Keeping that in mind, says Mr. Stimson, note that America buys upward of 80 per cent of Japan's silk exports, with Britain buying almost all the rest. Furthermore, Japan buys most of her essential raw materials from America and England—75 per cent of her oil and 50 per cent of her iron from America, practically all of her rubber from England, 80 per cent of her cotton from the two nations combined.

It is this trade that makes her war possible. As long as we carry it on we are helping in the assault on China. And Mr. Stimson asks:

"Is the condition of our statesmanship so pitifully inadequate that we cannot devise the simple means of international co-operation which would stop our participation in this slaughter?"

We might profitably find our government's present foreign policy in the light of Mr. Stimson's statement. It is a reminder that we do not now face a choice between keeping absolutely clear of the imbroglio or getting in it up to our necks. We are in it already, and we must shape our course in the light of that fact.

Must It Be 'Mister'?

ONE queer quirk of American speech habits came to light recently during the protracted discussion over the seating of Supreme Court Justice Black. We refer to speaking of a member of the high court as "Mr. Justice" so-and-so.

Just why we should be developing this habit is not quite clear. We don't use it with the judges of any lower court. We don't for instance, say "Mr. Police Judge O'Brien"; or rise a step higher, we don't speak of "Mr. Federal Court Judge McNott." Only when we reach the rarefied air of the Supreme Court do we tack on the "Mister."

The whole thing, probably, is a borrowing from the English custom, and arises no doubt from our desire to make the high court look as dignified as possible—for when we Americans try to put on the dog we automatically go British. But can't we respect the court's dignity enough without adding the "mister"?

Tired Children

MANY a child gets dosed for obscure organic ailments when all that is really the matter is over-fatigue. So said Dr. Theodore C. Elterich of Pittsburgh, in a recent address before the annual convention of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania.

"Every children's specialist," said Dr. Elterich, "has brought to him for supposedly difficult diagnosis, fundamentally normal children who are merely fatigued by the stress of modern civilization and too long hours of school. These children when put to rest, given a more adequate diet and a simplified daily routine, gain weight; their posture improves and their irritability disappears, their alleged naughtiness vanishes."

We hear a good deal about the over-taxing pace which modern life sets for adults. It wouldn't hurt us to realize that the same pace is often a bit strenuous for children.

Reaction to Certain Foods and Drugs Is Often Cause of Skin Eruptions

This is the third of a series of articles in which Dr. Morris Fishbein discusses diseases of the skin.

(No. 33)

The wrong kind of food is a definite factor in the production of certain skin diseases. We know, for example, that the absence of certain necessary food factors may result in diseases like pellagra with eruption on and burning of the skin.

There are certain types of food, such as shell fish and mushrooms, which may be contaminated with infectious organisms or which may contain poisons. When these substances are taken into the body, the skin may promptly show an eruption.

Some persons are especially sensitive to certain foods as, for example, strawberries, pork, sea food, eggs, wheat, chocolate, or similar substances. Whenever they eat these foods, they may have hives or similar eruptions on the skin.

We know that it is also possible for people to be sensitive to various drugs. In a person who is sensitive a very small dose of the drug may produce a severe reaction.

Some of the drugs which are most commonly associated with such reactions are bromides, iodides, phenolphthalein and quinine. Since these drugs are frequently the ingredients of patent medicines which are sold to the public under secret formulas and under queer names, people frequently have eruptions after taking such medicines and fail to realize the cause.

Some people are sensitive to serums and vaccines and other substances injected into the body with a view to preventing or overcoming infectious diseases. In the case of such sensitivity eruptions follow.

There are many skin diseases which are associated with hidden infections in the body. These infections, which are called focal infections, are most commonly found in the teeth, the tonsils, the sinuses, the gallbladder, the intestines and the urinary tract.

In certain forms of skin disease, a search is made for such infections. When the infection is found and controlled, the skin disease disappears. Recently we have learned a great deal about the glands of internal secretion. There seems to be no doubt but that these glands also control the appearance and functions of the skin.

For example, as I have already mentioned, an insufficient amount of material coming from the thyroid gland produces a skin that is dry and coarse and thick. If there is too much secretion from the thyroid gland, the skin is usually very pink and warm and perspires a great deal.

In certain conditions affecting the adrenal glands, the skin may be covered with a bronze pigment. Women frequently have yellow spots, which they call liver spots, which seem to be associated with the glands involved in childbirth. Especially during the time when a woman is going to have a child should her skin be watched for manifestations indicating disturbances of the interior of the body.

Tuberculosis and syphilis may seriously affect the skin if they are not discovered and treated as soon as possible.

The nervous system also may reflect an abnormal condition by the appearance of various eruptions, rashes which burn or itch, or in other ways.

NEXT: Impetigo, a skin disease common among children.

ALAN JEFFREY, hero, rising young artist.
BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepbrother.
JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SYLVIA SUTTON, oil heiress.

Yesterday: Mrs. Wentworth lays her plans for Barry and Sylvia and plans too that Jill will marry one of the banker Montagues.

CHAPTER III

THE summer lodge was perfect in its sylvan setting. Great trees towered above it. A blue lake, curving with the sky, washed lightly against green banks, close by.

High-powered speed boats skimmed the lake's serene surface. Lazy-looking canoes bobbed at intervals, sturdy skills tugged at ropes near the pier.

Mrs. Wentworth glanced now at the cocktail and highball glasses. There was no use to overlook the fact. Young people these days expected to be served drinks. They'd dub a party a washout if you didn't. She hoped Barry would be sensible. If only he were like Jack and Jill, who didn't drink at all.

Presently, with a glass in his hand, Barry was singing snatches of the St. Louis Blues. Jill glanced across at Sylvia Sutton. Sylvia was wearing a simple white sports dress, which made her look like a patrician angel. Jill thought. Not the cherubic kind. Sylvia's nose was straight and slender. Her coral lips might have been carved by a sculptor bent upon perfection in line and expression. Her eyes were wide and blue and appealing. She was small and slender and beautifully molded.

She should be labeled: "Handle with Care," Jill mused.

POOR Sylvia. She would probably find life a bit rough, if she married Barry. They were well suited in other respects. Barry, with his saturnine darkness, was a perfect foil for Sylvia's delicate blondness. There was something extremely devilish, at least devil-may-care about Barry, which contrasted sharply with Sylvia's angelic qualities.

Jill glanced up at Barry. He was not looking at Sylvia. His eyes met Jill's mockingly. "Spill it," he said.

"Oh, it's nothing," Jill answered. "I was just thinking that too many little Annes aren't good for a party. Don't forget Sylvia is here."

"Sylvia doesn't mind. She knows it can be mighty monotonous walking a straight line all the time. A fellow has to weave around a little. What a pretty little preacher you're turning out to be, Jill."

Jill said nothing.

THE afternoon merged into a warm cloudless night, which the young people found ideal for boating.

They were out early the next morning and remained on the lake the greater part of the day. Jill and Milo were on their way back to the lodge when they met Sylvia and Barry headed toward the lake.

"You're not starting back?" Jill exclaimed.

Jill took in the situation, anxiously. Barry's flushed face and the little points of light in his dark eyes were danger signals. But he was always difficult to handle when he was drinking.

"Let's make it a real race tomorrow," Jill suggested. "I'd like to race Milo."

"All right, come on," Barry said. "Too late. There's a big, black cloud, too."

"Joy-killer Jill!" Barry retorted. "Well, you can't stop my fun."

"I couldn't stand Barry's boastfulness another minute longer," Sylvia said, with a laugh. "I've been handling a motorboat since I was 12, and he thinks he can outrace me. Just an old show off."

Milo had linked his arm through

A man leaped from the car. As he came toward the porch they could see he carried someone in his arms. "He's bringing in Sylvia," Tommy cried.

Jill's. "Don't waste words on obstinate people. Well, so long. I'm betting on Sylvia."

MRS. WENTWORTH met them at the door. "Where is Barry?" she queried anxiously.

"He and Sylvia took two of the boats, planning to race," Jill answered.

Mrs. Wentworth's eyes were focused on the lake. Its surface was rougher. There was a chill in the air. Some ominous looking clouds were massing overhead.

"I don't like the look of that sky," she said.

"Neither did I," Jill said, slowly. "Barry's wind in them that clouds," drawled Tommy Lane.

"Tommy, don't be funny, you'll frighten Mrs. Wentworth," Lucia Willis warned.

"He's not being funny," this from Landy Brent. "Those thunderheads carry a lot of wind."

"Landy! You sound so dramatic. Do take me out on the lake, and we can rescue Sylvia and Barry."

"No, please!" Mrs. Wentworth spoke sharply. "You would be too more to worry about. Surely, they will be sensible and come in soon."

"Of course, they will, Mrs. Wentworth," Tommy said, cheerfully. "Hey, Jill. How about you and Milo taking on Lucia and me for a mah jong tussle? Landy, suppose you stroll down to the pier and see if you can spot those goofs anywhere."

"What's that!" Lucia cried.

"A put-out as I live," Tommy replied. "They're coming in. And in good time, I'd say."

Without warning the storm broke. Great, gusty waves of water were rolled over the shore. The lake was suddenly a boiling mass, lashing back under the swift onslaught of wind.

MAN'S figure was balanced precariously on the rocking pier, and then, head down, came running toward the lodge.

The group on the porch moved to meet him. Mrs. Wentworth had opened the door and was down the steps to greet the hurrying figure.

"Barry! Barry!"

"Don't be an idiot, mother," Barry cried. Dripping with water, wild-eyed, he had reached the porch.

A chorus greeted him: "Where is Sylvia?"

"Sylvia! Good heavens, hasn't she come in?"

"What do you think?" Landy drawled, coldly.

"We were on the way toward the point when the storm came up. It was getting dark. I didn't see her or hear the motor—so I thought—"

Barry broke off. The porch had filled suddenly, as groups from the living room joined the anxious group around Barry.

"Oh, goodness, is anybody hurt? Where's Sylvia?" Millicent Whitney asked in an excited tone.

"We don't know," Lucia answered.

"Some of you fellows will have to help," Landy said. "We've got to get a boat off and search for her. We may all go into the soup—"

"A boat couldn't live in that water now," Tommy spoke grimly. "But if you go, I'll go with you. Say, wait a minute, someone is coming."

An automobile horn sounded, and two lights loomed up near the porch.

Landy reached for a switch, and an electric lantern that swung by the door poured light out into the gloom.

A man had leaped from the car. As he came toward the porch they could see he carried someone in his arms.

"It's Jack Wentworth!" Tommy cried. "He's bringing Sylvia in, My God!"

Speed King Shaw Talks Safe Racing

His Type of Helmet Has Become Favorite Among Auto Racers

The new Speed King, Wilbur Shaw, who set a new record at the 1937 Indianapolis Speedway classic has been given many titles and nicknames.

One of the most interesting titles was tacked on his name in 1933 when he appeared on the Indianapolis track wearing a shiny red helmet as bright as fire. He was instantly termed the "Evil Brunnet" of race drivers and was the subject of ridicule by some.

The helmet, which resembled the British lancer's gear, was of hard composition material, and has since become the standard equipment of all racing drivers by ruling of the American Automobile Association. It is more or less "jar proof" and is credited with having greatly lessened fatalities during accidents.

So, thanks to Speed King, Wilbur Shaw, what at first appeared ridiculous has since contributed to the safety of auto racing. Whether it is a question of deciding what to wear or what to eat, Shaw's judgement is always sound. For example, he chooses a breakfast of hot Quakers Oats with sugar and cream, a breakfast which is ideal for active persons who have to guard their nerves and digestion.

caught the proud eyes of William and grained a friendly congratulation. This was just too much for Louise. Boiling with jealousy herself, she could not understand the impersonal attitude of her rival.

If possible, she hated Mary more than ever. She had thought it a private feud between them, and Mary had betrayed her. "Don't I mean anything more to her than that?" she wondered. "I thought all the time wings off of flies."

She heard Miss White whisper to Mary on her way to the cloak room. "I'm sorry, Mary. You will do better next time." To her, Miss White said nothing, which was strange because she would have been first, if it hadn't been for the sudden spurt of William Parks.

But in line, Miss White laid a gentle hand on her shoulder. "Louise, can you stay a moment?" Louise obediently took her seat.

It was then that this rare teacher explained the ethics of competition. That rivalry is a personal thing but competition is not. And that one must be a good loser as well as a winner. "You must learn to take your own failure in good grace. And also learn not to gloat when you win. This is being a real sport, you know. Had Mary won, instead of William, you would have lain awake all night. Now wouldn't you?"

Louise thought a long time. Suddenly she put her head on Miss White's knee. "I've just been mean," she sobbed. "I'll never be mean again. I ought to be glad I'm not Freddie Cook." (He usually got the back seat). Miss White stroked the fair curls. "Now, my dear," she said, "you are talking."

FOR a moment, Jack, looking like some blond young Viking, and Sylvia, her wet hair falling back from her white face, were outlined in the doorway.

"Somebody get some brandy, quick," Jack commanded. "And a blanket to put around her."

Mrs. Wentworth moved about mechanically, giving orders to the servants. Barry had brought the brandy and stooped to hold it to Sylvia's lips. But Jack took it from Barry's hand.

"Drink a little of this," he said gently, as though oblivious of the others grouped about the room.

"There, that's fine."

Color was coming back to Sylvia's cheeks. She glanced wonderingly up into Jack's face.

"I was wondering what you would look like," she said.

"You were the gamest."

"You were pretty swell, yourself," came Sylvia's weak voice.

"I was on my way here," Jack explained to the others, "driving fairly close to shore. I heard her call for help. The boat had capsized and she was trying to swim in. Lucky she wasn't far from shore."

"It seemed a long distance when you were swimming in with me," Sylvia said.

Tears stung Mrs. Wentworth's eyes. It wasn't fair for Jack to meet Sylvia in the role of a rescuer, with angry elements providing a dramatic backdrop. Jack was good-looking, and girls were romantic and impressionable.

She hoped it would continue raining. Rain would provide an excuse to break up the house party and go into town.

But the next morning there was little evidence of the past night's fury except broken branches on the ground, and rubbish washed upon the shore.

A zephyr-like breeze moved the bright awnings again. The lake was calm as glass, deeply blue. Taking its mood from the serene skies.

Murder Trial in Swing-Time Is Hollywood's Latest Insanity

HOLLYWOOD—All over the lot: In the Alice Faye-George Murphy picture, "Young Man's Fancy," they've got a courtroom scene to end all courtroom scenes. This one's done in swing-time and with modern decorations, together with a crowning district attorney and a tap-dancing counsel for the defense.

Ken Murray, who even smokes a cigar in rhythm, is the judge who intones: "Order in the court! Order in the court! Say what you gotta say, but try to make it short. People of the State vs. Minnie Swing—the charge is murder, and she did that thing. . . ."

Alice Faye is the beautiful defendant, but she shares masculine stares with the ladies of the jury—pretty gals who expose just about all the chignon bobs that the hazy office would allow. The room is all white pillars and chromium. There are metaloch curtains, and the sword and scales of Justice are outlined in brilliant. Looks like an uppy fashion salon. It has been suggested that when the picture is finished the whole set should be wrapped up and sent to Reno, with Hollywood's compliments.

Fields vs. Hepburn

Two movie companies, by coincidence, went out to the Bel Air country club the other day to make some shots at the thirteenth green. One group included Katharine Hepburn and others in the cast of "Bringing Up Baby." The other group, from "The Big Broadcast of 1938," was headed by W. C. Fields. Each company resented the other's presence because they'd have to take turns on the green. The rival camps were set up about 50 yards apart, but if they'd been 500 yards the RKO people still could have heard the stentorian grumbings of Fields. Mostly he talked about Miss Hepburn. "Great girl—Katie!" he'd say. "Delightful person. Of course I never believed a word of it, but they tell me she picks wings off of flies."

By the end of the day, Miss Hepburn was fit to be tied. Fields is a fellow who enjoys the lunacies of Hollywood, so he was delighted to find that his double has a double for one of the sequences in the picture. The comic went around chuckling about it all afternoon.

The regular Fields double, a man named George, was too heavy for some sort of levitation stunt being performed by wires, so a light-weight double was hired for George.

Spencer Tracy and Joan Crawford were doing a torrid clench scene for "Mannequin," but she was wearing a big picture hat that thwarted all Tracy's efforts at a graceful embrace. They tried it so many times that every body on the stage was hysterical. Fumed Tracy. "Hell, I might as well be trying to make love to Buck Jones!"

Barefoot With Shoes

In "True Confession," when you see Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray walking barefooted on the rocky shore of a lake, don't wince in sympathy. For they won't be barefoot, actually; they'll be wearing rubber shoes molded and lined with cork like bare feet, even to the colored toenails. These were made on plaster casts which originally were taken from the players' own feet.

114 Meet Death on the Highways

Many of 15,000 Pedestrians to Blame for Their Own Deaths

By the Associated Press
At least 114 persons lost their lives in automobile accidents on United States streets and highways during the week-end.

Fifteen thousand of the persons killed annually are pedestrians and the blame for their deaths may be placed largely upon the victims, themselves, the Greater New York Safety Council declared last week.

The council's report showed 67 percent of fatal motor vehicle accidents in cities were collisions with pedestrians and that 43 percent of those occur at intersections.

Its rules of safety for pedestrians include these: Don't cross two streets diagonally at the same time. Don't cross in the middle of a block. Don't step out from between parked cars. Don't leave a parked car by the left side.

Deaths by states over the week-end included:

Alabama 1, Arkansas 3, California 9, Connecticut 3, Georgia 1, Idaho 1, Illinois 4, Indiana 12, Iowa 1, Kentucky 2, Louisiana 1, Maryland 3, Massachusetts 4, Michigan 13, Minnesota 2, Missouri 4, Montana 1, New Jersey 2, New Mexico 2, New York 8, Ohio 14, Oklahoma 2, Oregon 1, Pennsylvania 25, South Dakota 1, Tennessee 2, Texas 4, Utah 2, Virginia 3, Washington 2, Wisconsin 8, Wyoming 1.

Barney Circus to Show Wednesday

Guest Tickets Are to Be Available at Many of Local Stores

The psychology of the circus is really simple. Our appeal is to the elemental instincts, to the child that is in every man. What they call "the lure of the circus" is merely the great, unexpressed yearning of every human being to be young again. The circus is a drop of water from Ponce de Leon's spring. It takes people back to childhood for two hours and makes them boys and girls again, makes them forget as nothing else will. This fact accounts for many seemingly contradictory features of the circus.

A man or a woman enjoys a circus because the child enjoys it. Their great pleasure is in giving pleasure to others. This year Barney Bros. Circus is three times its former size and the performance of a high order especially interesting because of the speedy action. It is said in the Bible that the lion and lamb shall lie down together. In the enclosed arena Capt. John Hoffman brings to the audience just such a scene. In fact a leopard, dog, goat, sheep and bear all five perform in the same arena.

By special arrangement with the Barney Bros. Circus, and through the co-operation of the merchants of Hope, it has been made possible for you to attend this circus for 15c for children and 25c for adults, instead of 25c for children and 40c for adults which is the regular price of the tickets if you buy them at the circus wagon.

If you will go to any of the merchants listed below they will be glad to give you a Merchants' Guest ticket, which you present at ticket wagon on circus day with a 15c service charge for a child and 20c service for an adult ticket. These tickets will admit you to see the main circus performance and without any further cost, unless you should desire a center section grandstand reserved seat, which can be purchased on the circus grounds for 15c extra.

Many merchants will have special bargains to offer you on circus day to come to Hope on Wednesday, October 27 and patronize the merchants who have made this circus bargain possible and see a real circus at a nominal cost.

Merchants who are co-operating and who now have the guest tickets for immediate distribution are:

Faulty Medicine Spreading Death

Elixir of Sulfanilamide Quickly Recalled by Doctors

CHICAGO.—(AP)—A nationwide race with death, its object recovery of more than 700 bottles, mostly pints, of a new liquid medicine, named elixir of sulfanilamide which has caused 36 verified deaths, was described over the week-end at the headquarters here of the American Medical Association.

Every agent of the United States Food and Drug Administration, said Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman of the Medical Association, is scouring the country to recover the bottles. By Monday, said J. O. Clarke of the Food and Drug Administration, it is hoped that all of the "outstanding" shipments will be recovered.

Telegrams and long distance calls have been pouring into the American Medical association office here at the rate of one every five minutes from all over the United States. They come from frightened citizens and physicians and officials seeking advice.

Several men in college laboratories have been spending nights on colds beside animals which have received some of the lethal substance, and which are watched in hope of a quick analysis of its deadly action.

Nothing like the present situation has happened in American medicine in many years, Dr. Fishbein said. It has never happened before in such magnitude. The trouble is that the lethal bottles are a form of the most sensational and valuable new medicine discovered in many years. In other forms this medicine has performed near miracles in treatment of streptococcal diseases and gonorrhea.

The "elixir" alone has brought reported deaths. One ounce of it killed a baby, said Dr. Paul Nicholas Leech of the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry of the A. M. A. There are 16 ounces in each pint. How many adults a pint can kill is unknown. An adult who took six ounces recovered. Danger lies in the fact that large dosages are customary with sulfanilamide preparations.

Farm Program to Cost One Billion

Federal Treasury Determined to Balance Outgo With Income

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The new farm program, part of which Congress must finance from new taxes, may cost a billion dollars in its first year.

Agriculture Department experts and others have estimated a probable cost of $700,000,000 for surplus crop control. President Roosevelt said in his revised budget estimate that 1937 cotton loans would cost $130,000,000. Some believe that proposed loans (if granted) easily could cost $170,000,000 considering that this year's crop forecast runs 1,000,000,000 bushels above the 1936 yield and that approximately $150,000,000 was lent on the 1934 corn loan program.

The cotton loans have been shouldered by the Treasury but Mr. Roosevelt has made it plain that congress must find a way to pay for the new farm act to be asked of the special session convening November 15. If there is to be a corn loan program, some believe it may have to be a mandatory action of congress and probably financed from new sources of

Cultivates Poise as No. One Asset

Women in These Modern Days Must Have More Than Glitter

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer
It's the woman with poise who holds the world's attention today.

Poise is to the 1937 woman what glitter was to the belle of the 90's and vitality was to the post-war flapper.

Three Characteristics
Women in these troublesome days realize they must have more than glitter.

The Duchess of Windsor is only one of them.
A well-poised woman appears always to be at ease with herself and the rest of the world.

She has at least three outward characteristics: good posture, no waste movement, controlled speech.

She doesn't fidget—with her fingers, her dress, or the pearls about her neck. She doesn't have to resort to a cigarette or a cocktail to have something to do with her hands—as her grandmother had to resort to her knitting when the conversation died down.

She had learned just what to say and when to say it—either through an innate feminine sensitivity to people or through careful practice.

For poise is both born and made.

Ten Candidates

Who are the American women with the most poise?

Here's a list of ten to start on:
Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.
Mrs. Herbert Hoover.
Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.
Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip.
Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.
Lena Madess Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women.
Maude Adams.
Josephine Roche, assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and Colorado mine operator.
Mrs. Vincent Astor.

Beware The Cough From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of opium for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote, perfectly blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion "tops" for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible, and active in going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is generally found satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritation, especially those stubborn ones that start as just a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained from the very first bottle of Creomulsion. Don't worry through another sleepless night—use Creomulsion.

Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product, and the relief that you want. (Adv.)

To Women:

If you suffer every month you owe it to yourself to take note of Cardui and find out whether it will benefit you. Functional pains of menstruation have, in many, many cases, been eased by Cardui. And where malnutrition (poor nourishment) had taken away women's strength, Cardui has been found to increase the appetite; improve digestion and in that way help to build up a natural resistance to certain useless suffering. (Where Cardui fails to benefit, consult a physician.) Ask your druggist for Cardui—(pronounced "Card-u-i").

Hope-Camden Game Friday Tops Conference Grid Card

Bobcats Point for Stiff Game Friday

Five Other "League" Games to Be Played This Week-End

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—The Arkansas high school conference offers six "league" games this week-end, but only one of them appears on the hope-sheet as likely to seriously alter the circuit's standings.

Hope, holding two victories and no defeats in the conference, meets the strong Camden Panthers. Foy Hammons' outfit will need all of Vasco Bright's ability to overcome the Ouchita county machine. Camden, twice defeated and apparently out of the championship picture, will be punning for hope.

Otherwise the schedule looks safe for Pine Bluff, Little Rock and Blytheville, the other three members with perfect records.

Pine Bluff will be seeking its sixth straight conference win at the expense of the luckless Hot Springs Trojans. Little Rock and Blytheville have out-of-state games, the Tigers against Memphis Central and the Chicks with Greenwood, Miss.

North Little Rock, clinging to a second place rating, is hoped to improve its standing by defeating the tail-end Benton eleven. Forrest City meets Jonesboro and probably will take the short end of the score.

Clarksville and Fort Smith tangle in a game that will give one of them its first conference victory while Russellville, playing 50-50 ball, engages El Dorado in a tossup game.

Fordeyce goes outside the conference for an annual engagement with Warren.

The standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Pine Bluff	5	0	0	1.000
Little Rock	3	0	0	1.000
Blytheville	2	0	0	1.000
Hope	2	0	0	1.000
North Little Rock	2	1	0	.667
Forrest City	2	1	0	.667
Russellville	1	1	0	.500
Jonesboro	1	1	0	.500
El Dorado	1	1	0	.500
Hot Springs	2	3	0	.400
Clarksville	0	2	0	.000
Camden	0	2	0	.000
Fordeyce	0	2	0	.000
Fort Smith	0	3	0	.000
Benton	0	4	0	.000

Results last week:

Pine Bluff 41, El Dorado 6.
 Little Rock 32, Fort Smith 0.
 Blytheville 27, Walnut Ridge 0.
 Hope 25, Nashville 0.
 North Little Rock 40, Searcy 0.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—The University of Arkansas Razorbacks don't a trio of expert place-kickers in B. A. Owen, Jack Robbins and Dwight Sloan. Owen, the most accurate of the three, has yet to miss a try for point this season. He kicked one placement after touchdown against T. C. U. two against Baylor and three against Texas. Either Robbins or Sloan holds the ball for Owen's kicks. When Robbins places-kicks, Sloan usually holds the ball; and Sloan reciprocates when Sloan is kicking.

"Holler Boys" Whoop It Up

LUBBOCK, Texas.—(NEA)—They're calling Texas Tech's "Holler Boys" the most colorful football team in the southwest, and perhaps with good reason.

Not only does Coach Pete Cawthon equip his lads with the flashiest helmets and uniforms in the district but he has them come out of every formation and huddle with a terrific blood-curdling war-whoop.

Baylor Bears Rule Southwest Circuit

Arkansas Comes Through With Victory Over S. M. U.

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—Unbeaten, untied Baylor, a study in offensive precision behind the stoutest line in its history, ruled the Southwest football roost Sunday.

Any doubt of Baylor's strength was erased Saturday when the Bruins rode over a stormy Texas A. and M. team, 13 to nothing, for their fifth straight victory and a total of 125 points against 16 for the enemy.

Next Saturday on their home lot Baylor faces one of its toughest assignments—Texas Christian.

The Christian jumped to a six point lead over a powerful Fordham team at New York in a rainy battle and held on until the last three minutes, when Fordham sneaked over a touchdown after a long pass. The kick for goal beat a game Texas team.

Not out of the running yet is Arkansas, the defending champions. They tucked up their second victory over Southern Methodist at Fort Smith, Ark., 13 to nothing, to give them two wins, a loss and a tie.

Arkansas meets the somewhat flattered Texas Aggies at Fayetteville next Saturday while Southern Methodist comes back to Dallas for a date with Texas.

Without a score for three games, Rice Institute suddenly came to life and registered its fourth straight victory over Texas, 14 to 7.

The Owls meet Auburn, tough Southeastern conference power, at Houston Saturday.

The Standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Baylor University	2	0	0	1.000
Rice Institute	1	0	0	1.000
Arkansas University	2	1	1	.625

Southworth Gets Chick Contract

Will Manage Club Again Next Year—Terms Are Not Disclosed

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Billy Southworth, who engineered the Memphis Chicks' drive from the Southern Association cellar in 1936 to the second-place this year, will manage the club again next year. Tom Watkins, president of the Chicks, said Monday that the one-time St. Louis Cardinal manager had signed. He did not reveal the salary figures.

Southworth, mentioned as a possible choice for the St. Louis Browns' manager, was said to have visited St. Louis en route to his home at Columbus, Ohio, at the close of the season last month. He came to Memphis in the latter part of the 1936 season, succeeding Freddie Hofmann with the team in eighth place. The Chicks finished the year on the bottom but were in the thick of the 1937 pennant fight until the latter part of the season.

Managerial posts at Columbus, Ohio, and Rochester, N. Y., also were once held by Southworth.

State Teachers to Play Wonder Boys

State College Championship May Be Settled This Week

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Barring unexpected upsets later, the Arkansas college football championship will be settled this week—a mid-season climax to a season chiefly distinguished by its poverty of play.

Arkansas State Teachers College meets Arkansas Tech at Russellville Friday night. Fans can take their choice and get plenty of argument on the other side.

Coach Warren Woodson's Bears from Conway won the 1936 state title by dropping Tech 19-13. The Pedagogues have, if anything, an even stronger combination this year. Dope figured them to win by at least a touchdown margin.

The Wonder Boys, however, are not only undefeated but unscared on this season. Add to this great defensive strength the fact the game will be played on Tech's home grounds and it makes for a bitter battle.

The Teachers will go into the game with victories over Southwest Missouri State Teachers, Louisiana College, Monticello A. and M. and Cumberland University. In these games the bears rolled up 176 points to become the nation's second highest scoring machine.

Tech has polished off Bacone Indians, Kansas State Teachers, Henderson State Teachers, Miami (Okla.) Junior College and Oklahoma City University. The Wonder Boys appear to have chosen a trifle tougher sledding.

The Teachers have a noutstanding star in Halfback Raymond Burnett while Tech's ace is Liston Hager.

If Tech wins it will have to dispose of Hendrix and the Warriors, who won honor by upsetting Southwestern a week ago, may prove tough. If the Teachers win they can virtually coast to the title with only Arkansas State and Henderson State remaining on their schedule. Neither school can compare with the Bears power.

Seven Major Changes Likely.
 The report cited a long list of important changes which probably would follow a general use of the picking machine.

First, mechanical picking on half the crop would save about 800,000 man-hours or approximately 2,000,000 workers.

Second, mechanization of pre-harvest labor probably would save 20 to 30 man-hours an acre in the Mississippi delta section.

Third, since men would be required to operate mechanical pickers, relatively fewer men than women and children would be displaced.

Fourth, labor required to raise work shoe land to grow feed would be reduced, while that for manufacturing machinery would be increased.

Fifth, there would be an increase in

9c GOVERNMENT COTTON LOAN FORMS RECEIVED

Forms for effecting government 9-cent loans are here, and we are now prepared to arrange loans with the same prompt and careful consideration that we have extended the producer for over 30 years.

The evidence of this constructive and gratifying service is the retention of the valuable patronage of some of the largest and most influential planters in the Hope territory for that unusual length of time; and those who anticipate placing their cotton in 9-cent government loans can be assured of this most satisfactory attention. Furthermore, they will find it to their decided advantage to arrange their loans through our firm.
